How Public Can Aid

IN CARE OF THE POOR

J. W. Canning willing to collect donations of Furniture, etc.; County Has Need of Co-operation

With the spring house cleaning at hand, J. W. Canning, superintendent of the county charity work, believes that the "efficient" housekeeper will come across many bits of old furniture and dishes for which she no longer has need. There are many poor in the city, he asserts who could make good use of just such odd ends and he requests that any one having such articles communicate with him. His telephone number is 2204.

Mr. Canning states that there is a demand for clothing for men, women and children. Yesterday he had a call to provide necessities for a family of seven. "The county has a big task in looking after the poor and needy and the co-operation of the people is a great aid," said Mr. Canning. "If any one will telephone me I will gladly call for anything they feel they can donate whether in the way of household furnishings or clothing."
